Don't be too hasty about feeding wheat to the hogs. Let's figure a little first. In 1913 an acre made 10 bushels and wheat opened in Hopkinsville at 80 cents. In 1914 the same acre has made 20 bushels and the present selling price is 70 cents. In one case $8 to the acre and in the other $14. You're $6 ahead, boys. Don't let the hogs have it.

REFUSES
500 WOMEN

President Tells Deputation That Suffrage Is Not a National Issue.

WILL NOT USE INFLUENCE.

For Passage Of Amendment Granting Them The Voting Privilege.

Washington, July 1.—More than 500 women suffragists, representing organized women of nearly every state, marched on the White House Tuesday and demanded of President Wilson a definite statement of his position towards votes for women.

"What are you going to do for women suffrage at this session of Congress?" was the question the leaders bluntly asked. "Will you use your influence in favor of the Mondell-Bristow suffrage resolution for constitutional amendment, which comes up before the House Rules Committee to-morrow?"

Headed by Mrs. Harvey W. Wiley, Rheta Childe Dorr, Mrs. William Kent, Alice Paul and other leading spirits in the Congressional Union for Woman Suffrage, the delegation, after a public mass-meeting, marched behind a brass band to the White House gates, where they were received by Secretary Tumulty, who took them to the President.

President Wilson told them that woman suffrage was a state issue and not a national one, and for that reason he would not use his influence for the passage of a constitutional amendment in Congress.

Ollie Mentioned.

An editorial in a Washington paper names Senator James as one of the men more deserving of the presidential nomination than Bryan in case Wilson decides not to run again.

INSURED FOR
$18,000,000

Austrian Archduke and Wife Leave Their Children Well Provided For.

Vienna, July 1.—According to opinions expressed by high government officials, the plot which resulted in the assassination on Sunday of Archduke Francis Ferdinand and his wife, the Duchess of Hohenberg, owes its inception to a nationalist propaganda which organized in Serbia.

The news of the death of Archduke Francis Ferdinand and the Duchess of Hohenberg was broken to their children Sunday evening. The orphans broke down and their aunt, Countess Chotek, fainted.

The Tageblatt says the late Archduke's life was insured with Dutch companies for $12,000,000 and that of his wife for $6,000,000.

Reports from districts of Bosnia say that disorders virtually have ceased.

The perpetrators of Sunday's outrages will be tried before the civil courts of Sarajevo and not under martial law. Nedeljo Gabrinovic, who threw the bomb at the Archduke and his consort on Sunday, will therefore be liable only to imprisonment for a period of from five to ten years on a charge of attempted murder, while Gavrio Prinzip, who fired the fatal shots, may, it is said, escape with ten years' imprisonment on account of his youth.

Lawrence McShane on seeing his nephew nearly overcome with gas called a doctor, and it was while getting James McShane from under the house that he was also overcome by the gas. Two doctors worked with them for over an hour before they were in condition to be taken home. Yesterday they were both better. NEARING ITS COMPLETION

Handsone Carnegie Library On Liberty Street To Cost $16,500.

WILL BE OPENED NEXT MONTH

Building Designed By John T. Waller and Erected By Forbes Mfg. Co.

One of the handsomest of the many new buildings of which Hopkinsville will be able to boast before the passing of the present year, is the Carnegie Library Building. It was at first proposed to put the Library on what is now Peace Park, but, owing to an adverse decision as to the legality of using that ground for Library purposes, it was decided to erect the building on some other site and the lot on the corner of Liberty and Eighth streets was purchased in November 1913, by the retiring city council. The ground was broken by Mayor Chas. M. Meacham on December 20, 1913. The work was soon under way and was continued through the winter and spring months.

The plan for the building, which has received compliments from several of the best library experts in the state, was drawn by Jno. T. Waller. The building faces Liberty street. It is a Roman Doric architecture and is a one-story building with a large basement. It is about 55 feet by 62 feet in size and all the arrangements will be modern. The outer walls of the building are made of buff brick and Bowling Green stone. The finishings are of pressed brick and faced with stone.

You enter the building by concrete front steps and come directly into the front hall, where the librarian will have her desk. On the right side of this hall will be a general reading room and there will be a reading room for children on the left. Back of this room will be the librarian's room. In the rear, to the right, will be a stock room and reference room.

From the back of the main floor there is a stairway leading to the basement. There will also be concrete steps to the basement from either side of the front steps. In the basement will be a large lecture room with a stage and other equipments, and also a room made to take care of the meetings of any literary societies or clubs. Ample storage room will also be made in the basement for any furnishings not in use. The outer walls of the basement will be of double breadth, thus making the basement well provided against dampness. A drain pipe will also run all the way around the building.

The building will be steam heated and an excellent system of ventilation has been installed. The rooms will be lighted by electric lights and the wiring will be run through metal conduits, so that no part of it can be exposed. The lights will have pendant fixtures and Alba globes. On the two buttresses on either side of the front steps there will be two lamp stands of cast metal, which will add greatly to beautifying the outside appearance of the library. On either side of the front will be a tablet to Andrew Carnegie, the great philanthropist who gave the building to Hopkinsville.

The contract for the work was let to the Forbes Manufacturing Company for $14,000. The brick work was done by Dalton Bros. Brick Co., and the concrete work by the Meacham Contracting Company. The building will be completed about the last of August, or the first of September, and the equipment and furnishing will be taken up immediately. The woodwork will be of dark oak and the floor will be covered with cork linoleum. The total shelf capacity will be about 16,000 volumes. Some of these books will be ordered at the start and the library already has the equipment of the former Hopkinsville Public Library in hand.

The city council in authorizing the construction of the library agreed to give $1,500 each year for the main-

REACHING OUT FOR BUSINESS

Big Addition To Mogul Wagon Factory (Ready For Occupancy).

THE ANNEX 84 BY 100 FEET.

Will Add Fifty Per Cent To The Present Capacity Of 60,000 Wagons.

The Mogul Wagon Works has just completed an addition to the machinery department of the big factory on Twenty-first street, and will occupy it as soon as the machinery can be transferred from the smaller room in which it is now located. The annex is in the rear of the main building and is 84 by 100 feet. The blacksmithing and wheel departments will be enlarged in the new room and the manufacturing and painting departments will be given additional space in the main building.

The enlargement will increase the monthly capacity from 500 to 750 wagons. This was made necessary by an increase of 67 per cent in the volume of business over last year for the fiscal year just ending.

General Manager John F. Bible, in the three years that he has had charge of the business, has wonderfully increased its trade all over the South. He now has $60,000 of future orders booked and the factory will be run at its enlarged capacity to meet the demand for Mogul wagons.

This factory is one of the biggest enterprises in this part of Kentucky and the wagons made are shipped to all parts of the South, and orders are sometimes filled from the most distant western states. The future output of the factory will be nearly 100,000 wagons every year. The plant gives employment to from 150 to 200 hands and covers many acres of ground, upon which are located a saw mill, drying sheds and special machinery rooms in which the Hickory logs are gradually converted into the finest farm wagons on the market.

JUDGE HENSON

Candidate For Congress Is Here This Week.

Judge J. W. Henson, of Henderson county, Democratic candidate for Congress in the August primary, is in the city this week seeing the voters. The campaign is now on its last lap and all candidates are on a hostile.

terance and running expenses of the library. The first yearly payment of this appropriation was used in the purchase of a lot.

The present Library Board, who have charge of the library, is made up of Messrs. Frank Rives, Pres., Ira D. Smith, W. T. Tandy, and Messdames Walter A. Radford and T. C. Underwood. It is mostly to them that the credit of the library is due, for it was largely through their efforts and by the efforts of the last city council that a Carnegie Library for Hopkinsville was made possible.

The library board has elected Mrs. Virginia Lipscomb as librarian. Mrs. Lipscomb has been librarian of the present Public Library for ten or twelve years and so the work will not be new to her. The present library has over 4,000 volumes, which will be given to the new one. In that collection, besides the valuable recent fiction, is included the Perry collection, which was presented by Miss Emily B. Perry, and the Latham gift of histories and reference books, both adding many useful volumes to the list of books.

During the opening month of the library Mrs. Lipscomb will have with her Miss Catherine Engstfeld, of Birmingham, Ala., who is a graduate of the New York Library School. Miss Engstfeld is a library specialist and will aid in the cataloging and selection of the books.
